

Refinancing your Business for Success

ABOUT THIS PROGRAMME:

The shutdown of economies across the world in response to COVID-19 has created large-scale disruption of company operations. As the lockdowns are lifted, many companies will find themselves operating in difficult economic environments. It is time for businesses, large and small, to assess the financial impact of the lockdowns on short-term goals while also taking the time to re-calibrate long-term financial plans.

Join us for an interactive, practical and personalised two-day online programme that will walk participants through:

- Analysis of the finances of a case-study company or your own company
- Review of assets, cash-flows and borrowings
- Distress determination of a case-study company or your own company
- Preparing a company for refinancing to boost financial sustainability
- Refinancing options for a case-study company or your own company

FACULTY:

Nana Tankou is a consultant and trainer in the fields of Finance, Project Management, Operations Management and Strategy. His twelve-year, on-field experience is strongly focused on getting managers in the financial and non-financial fields to understand the financial implications of their decisions to their organisation's bottom line.

Nana facilitates extensively and works closely with the Certified Institute of Management Accountants (CIMA) and the Association of Chartered Certified Accountants (ACCA). He holds a MBA from the Edinburgh Business School in Scotland where he is currently completing a Master's degree in Financial Management. He also holds a Chartered Accounting qualification, a Certified Associate Project Manager certification with the Project Management Institute (PMI). He has also completed a Bachelor of Science (Honours) degree in Accountancy from the Cameroonian University of Buea.
