Investing in African start-ups: Plug and Play SA

Silicon Valley-based venture capital firm Plug and Play is the ultimate innovation platform, bringing together the best start-ups and the world's largest corporations. With a mission to make innovation open to anyone, anywhere, Plug and Play boasts an ecosystem of 20 000 start-ups, 400 major corporate partners and over 180 venture capital firms across 36 international locations. The firm will be launching an office in Johannesburg to help talented African start-ups to grow, and become global players that will help drive their economies, and contribute to job creation.

Join Grace Legodi, head of Plug and Play South Africa, for a discussion on the firm's plans for South Africa, venture capital investing, the importance of business development acceleration for start-ups and the benefits of corporate innovation using start-ups in the execution of their innovation strategies.
