1. PREAMBLE

- 1.1 The purpose of these regulations is to provide the University of Johannesburg with a disciplinary system that is based on legal principles, reflects the South African Constitution and which can be consistently applied.
- 1.2 The disciplinary system must be understandable and accessible. It must be applicable to the specific environment and must continually be tested against current needs. It must, therefore, be an adaptable and flexible system.
- 1.3 The regulations provide for the appointment of officials to ensure the separation of powers, where applicable, and the making of judicial decisions that are based on knowledge, fairness and understanding of the particular environment.
- 1.4 A distinction is made between material and formal rules of law. Material rules of law relate to transgressions and the elements thereof and are separately provided for in the Student Regulations of the University. Formal rules of law refer to the process according to which guilt in an alleged transgression is determined and are provided for in these Regulations for Student Discipline.
- 1.5 It is the explicit aim of the University to inculcate in its students respect for the law, for the rules and policies of the University and for the values of the University as reflected in its vision, mission and values statement. In so doing, it seeks to minimise the need to resort to a formal disciplinary process in respect of student transgressions.

2. APPLICATION

- 2.1 When registering as a student of the University of Johannesburg, a student commits himself/herself to the rules and regulations of the University, including these regulations. It is the responsibility of the student to familiarise himself/herself with the applicable regulations of the University.
- 2.2 A student commits an offence if he/she contravenes any of the rules or regulations of the University of Johannesburg, any other legislation or regulations applicable to students of an institution of higher learning of South Africa or the legislation of South Africa. In such a case, these regulations regulate the application of discipline.
- 2.3 In circumstances where a student has allegedly committed an offence which is a criminal offence as well as a contravention of the rules and regulations of the University of Johannesburg, the University may subject the student to disciplinary action according to these regulations and/or report the case for a possible criminal process.
