

UJ Library on a benchmarking drive

The Library has embarked on a benchmarking initiative to position itself for the fourth industrial revolution. The exercise started with a stop at the University of Pretoria Library and will cover Wits and UNISA. The demands of the fourth industrial revolution will be best addressed by the Library working together with other academic libraries on issues of common interest.

Quenching thirst after a day's work

Students requested the availability of drinking water at the libraries as they spend most of their time in these facilities. The Library responded and arranged for the installation of water fountains at all the campus libraries.

Below is Eddie Khumalo, UJ Staff member, and student Lebogang Mxumalo who are very impressed with the new fresh water fountain outside the Library.
