

Candice MacMillan Profile

Candice MacMillan is a lecturer and researcher in Biomechanics at the University of Pretoria, Physiology Department, and consultant for the Sport Science Lab® international franchises. She was previously a post-doctoral fellow at the University of Canterbury (New Zealand) and the University of Pretoria's Sport, Exercise, Medicine and Lifestyle Institute (SEMLI) (South Africa). She has been the team physiotherapist for various elite sports teams including SuperSport United FC, Men's and women's provincial hockey teams, Fireballs Netball team. She obtained her Ph.D. and MSc degrees with distinction from the University of the Witwatersrand, Johannesburg, South Africa. She has a special interest in human movement analysis and female athlete performance and injury prevention. Her current research projects focus on identifying and investigating research gaps related to factors that influence various aspects of the biomechanics of female athletes.

