

Prof Andrew Green

Andrew Green is an Exercise Physiologist and biomechanist in the Department of Sport and Movement Studies at UJ, where he lectures to a diverse student cohort. His research interests revolve around the technical and physiological predictors of performance. Specifically, focussed on jumping and landing mechanics.