

Dr Bradley Sandler, who practices at the Bryanston Chiropractic and Sports Injury Clinic in Johannesburg, South Africa, graduated with a Master's Degree in Chiropractic from the University of Johannesburg in 2006. He obtained his International Certificate in Sports Chiropractic through the International Federation of Sports Chiropractic(FICS)

Dr Sandler, is the immediate past president of the International Federation of Sports Chiropractic and also served on the Exco of ChiroSport of South Africa. He was a chiropractic faculty member and lecturer at the University of Johannesburg. He has received the award of Sports Chiropractor of the year twice, 2015 and 2018 As a sports chiropractor he has worked in his community nationally and internationally. He most recently worked as part of the FICS team at the World Games in Birmingham Alabama (2022), Kaohsiung, Taiwan (2009) and Cali, Colombia (2013). He worked at the Paralympics in Rio 2016. Locally he has worked with the South African national cycling team at the Tour de Langkawi in Malaysia and the Lions u16 team at the Grant Khomo week.

