English

Let us rejoice, therefore,
While we are young.
After a pleasant youth
After a troubling old age
The earth will have us.
Long live the academy!
Long live the professors!
Long live each student;
Long live the whole fraternity;
For ever may they flourish!

Thesis: A process model for AI algorithmic fairness: A Habermas approach

Supervisor: Prof H Twinomurinzi

Xivuri, Khensani Pretty (PhD)

Khensani Pretty Xivuri holds a BCom Informatics, BComHons Informatics, and a Master's of Information Technology (MIT), from the University of Pretoria. She has over 10 years' experience in IT audit, governance, risk, and assurance.

Her thesis adapted Jürgen Habermas' critical theory of communicative action, and lifeworld as an ideal mechanism to develop a process model for AI algorithmic fairness. The findings revealed limited gender and social diversity in AI teams, and little accountability to ensure fair AI. The study identified two predominant mindsets towards society's participation in ensuring ethical AI models: a dependent mindset, where individuals believe external entities are responsible for AI fairness, and an independent mindset, where individuals believe in taking personal initiative on fairness.

The study also provides practical guidelines for AI managers and developers to work with relevant stakeholders, including society in detecting and mitigating bias before deployment. Three articles were published from her research.

Supervisor: Prof H Twinomurinzi
